City Development Plan 2

Background Report

Infrastructure Audit: Community Facilities

March 2024

Community Infrastructure

Existing Community Infrastructure

1. What is community infrastructure and how is it used?

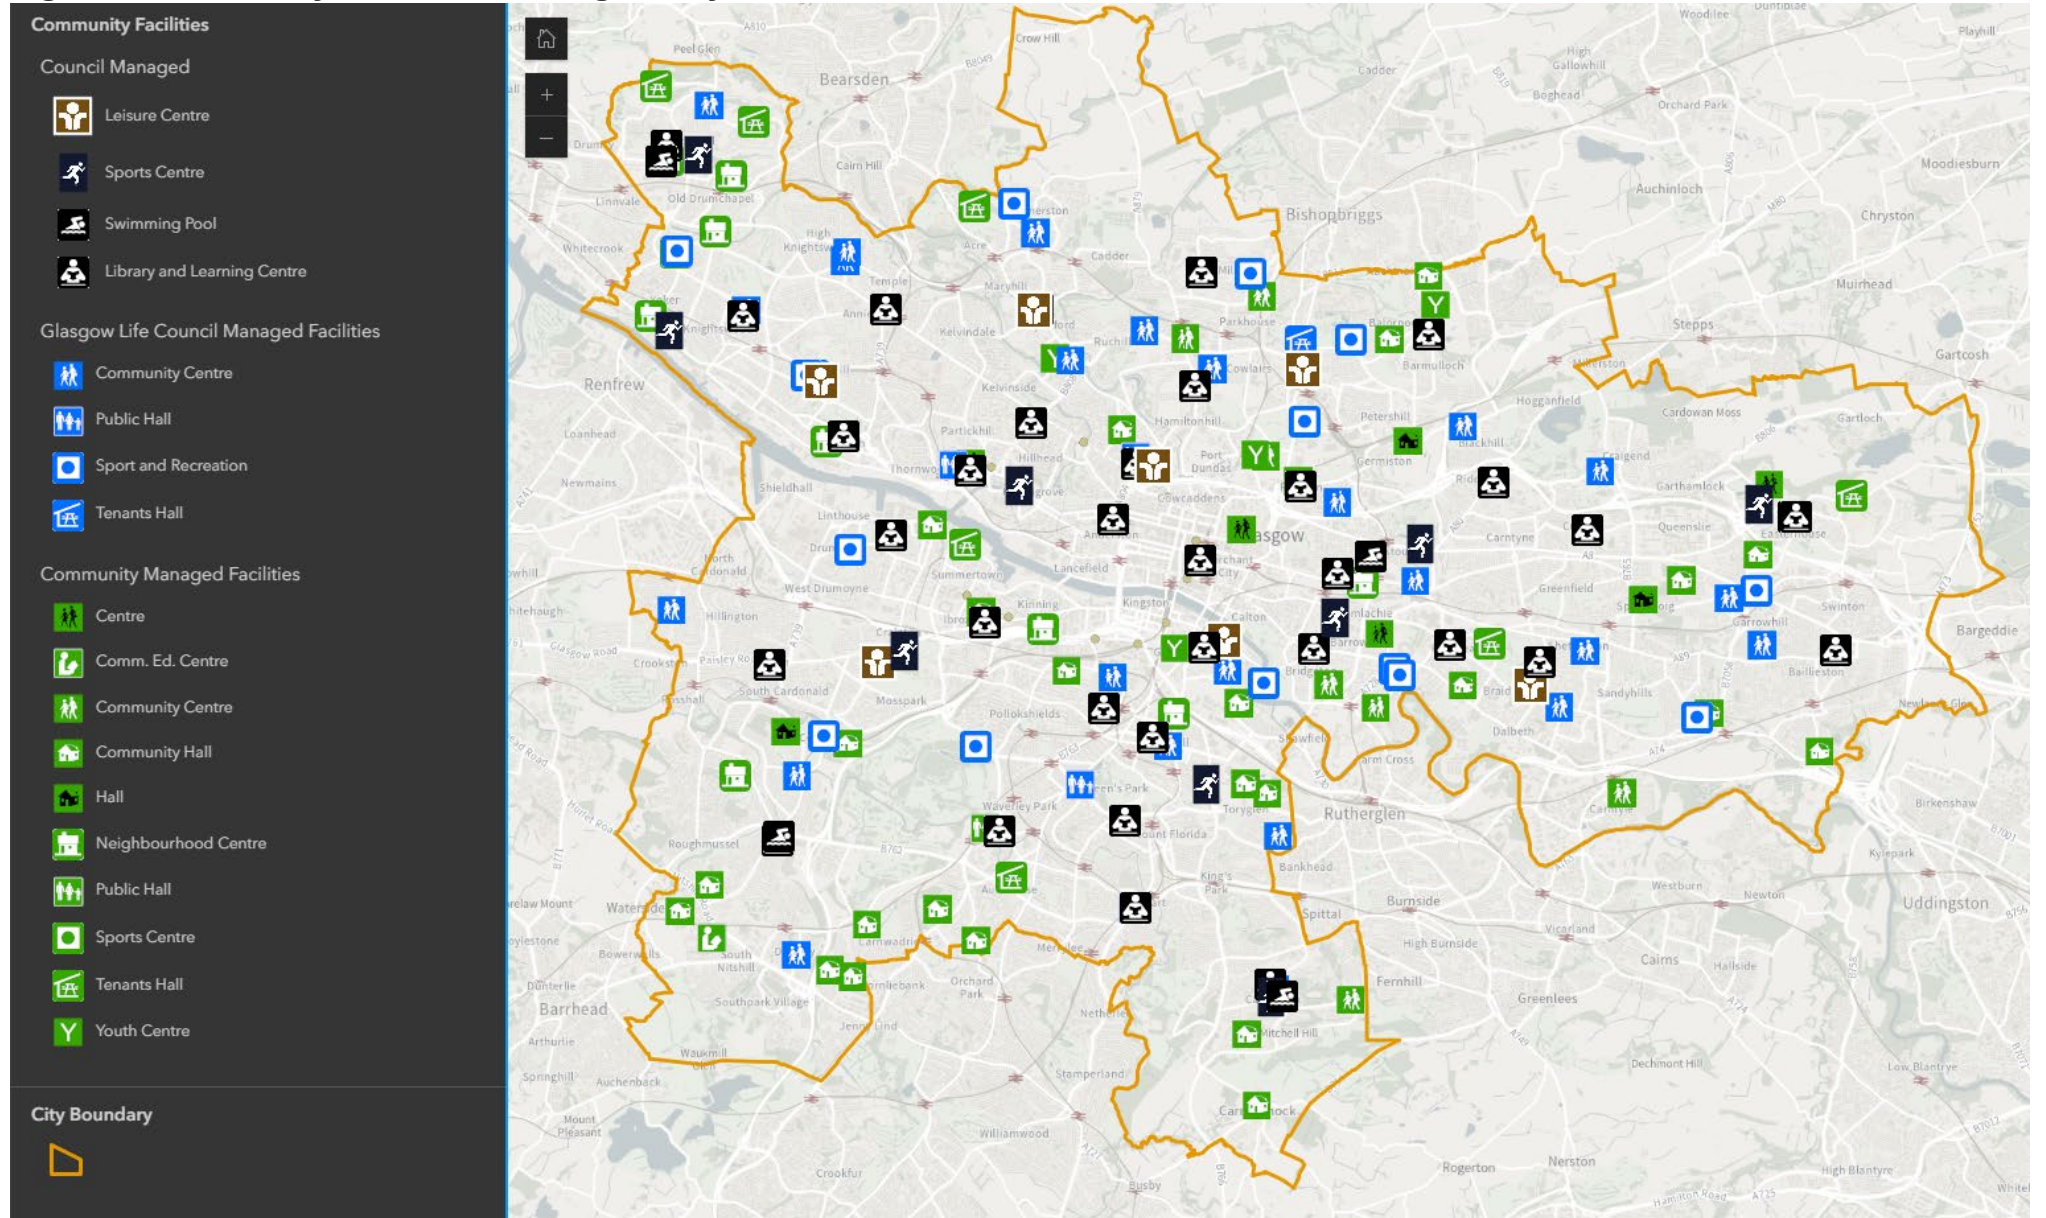

Community infrastructure can be defined as the physical infrastructure within the community (including places, spaces and facilities) that supports the formation and development of social networks and relationships. For the purposes of this audit, community infrastructure in Glasgow includes libraries, community centres/halls, sports and leisure centres (excluding sports pitches which are considered in the Blue Green Infrastructure Audit), public conveniences and water refill locations. They are described in more detail below and their distribution is shown in Figure 1.

It should be noted that this audit will focus on publicly owned community infrastructure only.

The majority of libraries, community centres/halls and sports and leisure centres are operated by Glasgow Life. However, some of these facilities are leased to third parties or are operated via the 'People Make Glasgow Communities' programme, a mechanism by which local people, community groups, third sector and other organisations can express an interest in having a greater involvement in the management of local venues.

Public conveniences and water refill locations have been added to the community infrastructure audit as it is a new requirement of the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 (Section 7(2)(d)) for local development plans to include statements of the planning authority's policies and proposals as to the provision of each.

Libraries

Libraries provide a range of services for their local communities including a book lending service, a place to relax and meet other people, free access to the internet and Wi-Fi*, and programmes of events and activities (including lifelong learning, children's activities, book groups etc) that are open to everyone. The Vision for Glasgow Libraries sets out the role of libraries within communities.

 Glasgow Community and Learning Development Strategic Plan 2021-24 (page 10) highlights Ofcom report stating that 31% of Glaswegians don't have broadband internet access in the home and this is most prevalent in areas of deprivation and in older people's homes.*

Whilst all of Glasgow's libraries are there to serve their local community, the Mitchell Library is also one of Europe's largest public libraries with more than a million items. In addition to local community spaces and services, it also houses the Glasgow City Archives and Special Collections which can be viewed by all of Glasgow's citizens and visitors.

Community Centres

Community centres provide indoor spaces which are available to hire by community groups and local individuals to host events such as fitness classes, coffee mornings, community meetings and gatherings, family celebrations etc.

Sports and Leisure Centres

Sports and leisure centres offer a range facilities and services that help to improve the physical and mental health and wellbeing of the communities they serve. They range in size from small-scale local community swimming pools to the large-scale Emirates Arena and Sir Chris Hoy Velodrome, which is both a local community sports and leisure hub and a venue for national and international sports events.

Public Conveniences

Public conveniences are toilet facilities that members of the public can access without needing to be a customer. This includes:

- public toilets;
- toilets in train stations, bus stations, service/petrol stations, underground train stations, ferry terminals, airports and other transport networks;
- shopping centre toilets;
- toilets in public buildings, such as town halls, libraries, hospitals, museums and leisure centres; and
- toilets in other businesses where the business agrees that the public can use their toilets without having to buy anything. These are often part of Community Toilet Schemes and can include shops, cafes, supermarkets, restaurants, hotels and pubs.

Water Refill Locations

Scottish Water has installed standalone water refill facilities in public locations across Scotland to encourage people to refill their own water bottles with cool, fresh drinking water when out and about and reduce the use of single use plastic bottles. All of the existing water refill locations known as 'top up taps' have been mapped and are available to view here: <https://www.yourwateryourlife.co.uk/find-my-nearest-tap/>

2. Capacity and Condition

An assessment of the condition of Council-owned venues (including community facilities) was undertaken in 2009 and is therefore out of date. A review of the condition of these venues is currently being undertaken by Glasgow City Council. When the results of the review are available, they will be used to inform the Proposed Plan.

Libraries

There are 34 libraries in Glasgow City as well as an online library service (see Figure A in Appendix 1 for details of all library buildings). All libraries are operated by Glasgow Life, with the exception of one (Netherton Library) which is leased to a third party. Two libraries are currently closed – Elder Park Library is being refurbished and will reopen in Summer 2024; and Cardonald Library is closed for investigations as RAAC concrete has been identified in the building.

Condition information for Glasgow’s libraries is not yet available. Fourteen libraries are located in Listed Buildings which require careful maintenance – 2 are A-listed (Anniesland and Elder Park Libraries); 11 are B-listed (Dennistoun, Govanhill, Hillhead, Langside, Maryhill, Mitchell, Parkhead, Pollokshields, Possilpark, Whiteinch and Woodside Libraries); and 1 is C-listed (Partick Library) - see Figure A in Appendix 1.

Community Centres/Halls

There are 24 community centres and 4 community halls in Glasgow City (see Figure B in Appendix 1 for details of each). The majority are operated by Glasgow Life, 1 centre is leased to a third party (Bluevale Community Centre), and 3 centres (Garrowhill, Molendinar and Woodside Community Centres) are operated via the People Make Glasgow Communities programme. Five community centres (Balgrayhill, Ruchazie, Ruchill, Shettleston and Tollcross Community Centres) and Langside Hall are not currently operational due to a lack of funding. There are no plans to re-open these facilities.

Condition information for Glasgow’s community centres/hall is not yet available. Two community centres/halls are located in A-listed buildings (Langside Hall and St Francis Community Centre) and 2 are in B-listed buildings (Couper Institute Campus Hall and Partick Burgh Hall) which require careful maintenance - see Figure B in Appendix 1.

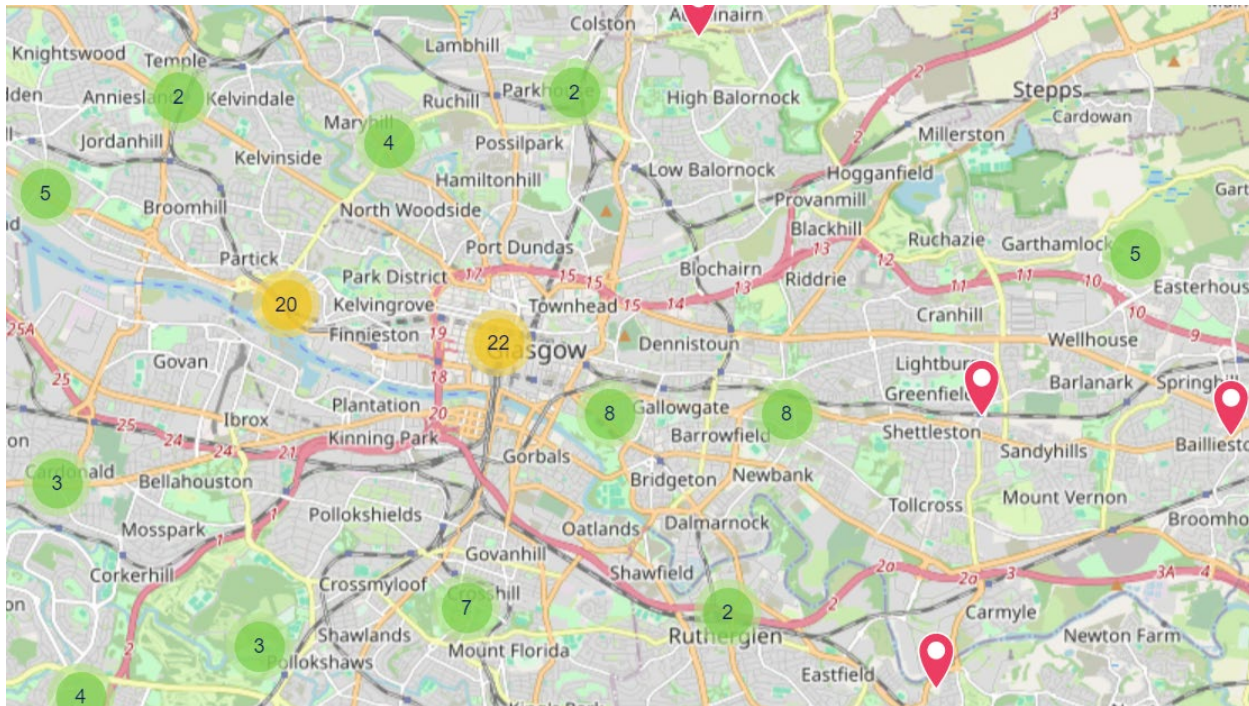

Sports and Leisure Centres

There are 32 sports and leisure centres in Glasgow City (see Figure C in Appendix 1 for details of each). The majority are operated by Glasgow Life but 4 centres (Barlia Sports Centre, Easterhouse Sports Centre, Glasgow Club Drumoyne and Nethercraigs Sports Complex) are operated via the People Make Glasgow Communities programme. Three of the centres (Drumchapel Pool, Scotstoun Campus Outdoor Hall and Whitehill Pool) are currently closed for investigations as RAAC concrete has been identified in the buildings.

Condition information for Glasgow's sports and leisure centres is not yet available. Four sports and leisure centres are located in B-listed buildings which require careful maintenance – they include Kelvin Hall, Maryhill Leisure Centre, North Woodside Leisure Centre and Palace of Art - see Figure C in Appendix 1.

Public Conveniences

Glasgow Life has provided details of 54 public conveniences across Glasgow City, including standalone facilities and those within public buildings (see Figure D Appendix 1 for details of each). Their location can be viewed on the Great British Public Toilet Map, which also includes additional public conveniences within retail and other business premises that agree that the public can use their toilets without having to buy anything. An extract of this map is shown below (copyright Great British Public Toilet Map / Open Street Map):

Water Refill Locations

Scottish Water has installed 8 'top up tap' standalone water refill locations in public spaces around Glasgow City:

- Buchanan Bus Station
- Buchanan Street

- Botanic Gardens
- Clyde Place
- Pacific Quay / Science Centre
- Queen's Park
- Riverside Museum
- Cathkin Braes

Scottish Water has operational funding for maintenance of the Top up Taps, they are cleaned weekly by Scottish Water's contactor Mitie and are sampled monthly by their sampling teams to ensure the water quality meets Public Health Standards. Scottish Water are continually maintaining them; from replacing livery and nozzles, to replacing the whole unit when they get to 4/5 years old. Scottish Water has relied on the public, Mitie and sampling teams to let them know if the taps are not working. In spring 2024 Scottish Water has started to install new technology which provides a 5-10 year battery life, the ability to remotely monitor battery life, usage, and also the ability to remotely switch them off/on in any type of emergency.

3. Compatibility with Investment Hierarchies

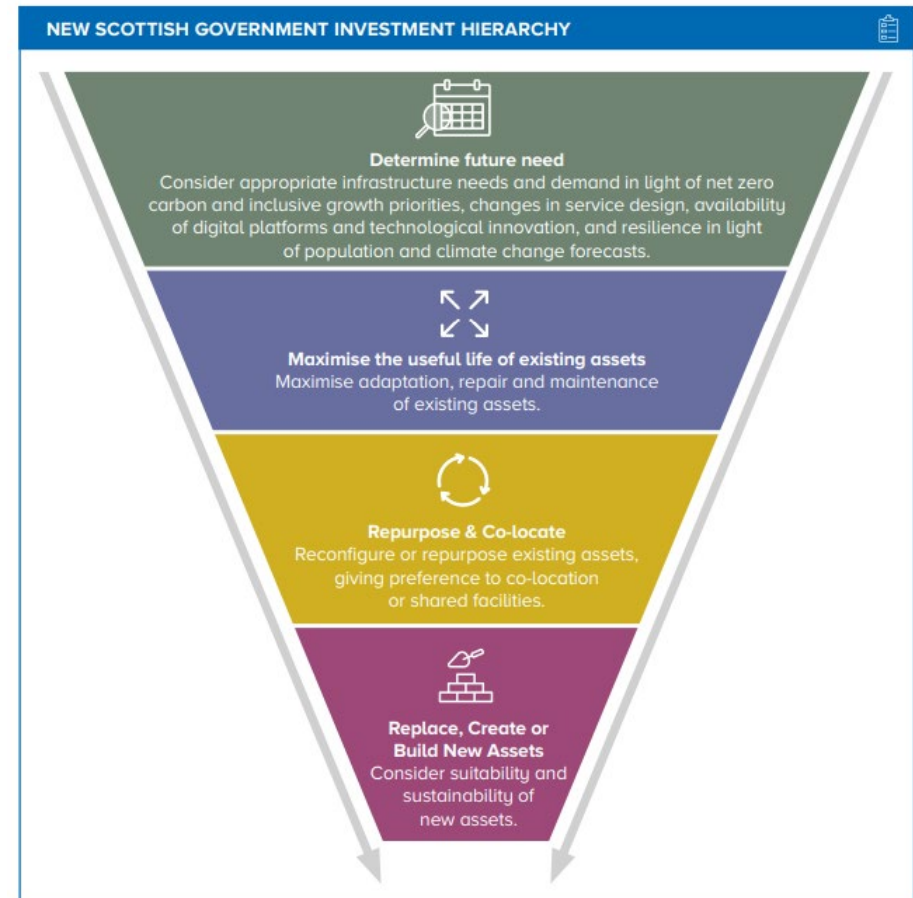

Glasgow Life's capital investment programme helps to maximise the useful life of existing community facilities. It includes funding for ongoing maintenance and refurbishment of community facilities.

The Council has made a commitment for its estate to be net zero by 2030. In order to achieve that goal, changes will need to be made to Council-owned buildings, principally in the way they use energy. This will be covered in the Council's forthcoming Carbon Management Plan.

Consideration is being given to the co-location of community facilities with other services such as education and healthcare. For example, the new North-East Health & Social Care Hub at Parkhead (to be called the Parkhead Hub) is under construction at Salamanca Street and will bring together a number of community health and social care services, community spaces including bookable rooms, the relocated Parkhead library and a café. It is also designed to achieve net-zero in operation and located adjacent to high accessibility public transport. The Hub is due to open in Autumn 2024. Another example is Baillieston Hub which is currently at Stage 2 design and will incorporate community, leisure and library facilities at James Lindsay Park.

As community infrastructure is usually there to serve surrounding local communities, centres are often located within walking and cycling distance for many of their users. Cycle parking facilities have been installed at some centres to encourage use of carbon free transport rather than travel by car.

Consideration is also being given to the location of community facilities in relation to town centres and mobility hubs to reduce the need to travel unsustainably. Mobility hubs are where active travel, public transport, and shared transport options come together, along with additional community facilities in a way which improves the public realm for all. This is consistent with the Council's Liveable Neighbourhoods approach.

Proposed Community Infrastructure

4. Future Needs

Libraries, Community Centres, Sports and Leisure Centres

Glasgow has extensive provision of community facilities, operated by Glasgow Life, across the city. Maintenance of these facilities forms the focus of activities to the benefit of communities. Consideration of future needs will be required in conjunction with any areas of new development associated with the Proposed Plan.

Public Conveniences

Whilst provision of toilets across the city is reliant on a number of providers, funding is a key driver for provision. Future needs for public conveniences are therefore likely to be considered by individual providers as they roll out investment in facilities or as new public-private spaces are developed.

Water Refill Locations

Water refill facilities are a relatively new requirement of Scottish Water and the public sector. At present Scottish Water's focus is on rolling out coverage across Scotland and therefore the current focus is on settlements outwith Glasgow which do not have top up taps.

5. Programmed Improvements

Libraries, Community Centres, Sports and Leisure Centres

Glasgow Life delivers on-going capital improvements to the estate to ensure an ongoing maintenance programme within allocated resources.

Public Conveniences

Each Glasgow Life capital project includes consideration of whether improvements are needed to accessibility (including toilets) and, if funds allow, improvements may be made.

Water Refill Locations

A further Top Up Tap is to be installed at Glasgow Green/Peoples Palace in summer 2024.

6. Further improvements required

The surveys to be carried out by GCC should, on completion, provide information to inform decisions on further improvements required to Glasgow Life facilities. Provision of Water Refill Locations is currently overseen by Scottish Water and as noted Scottish Water's current focus is on rolling out coverage across Scotland and therefore the current focus is on settlements outwith Glasgow which do not have top up taps. Further analysis is required to understand further improvement required in the provision of Public Conveniences.

7. Deliverability

There are funding constraints to be considered when identifying the need for new or improved community facilities. All community infrastructure requires on-going maintenance to be operational and safe for the public to use. Capital works programmes are allocated annually and are spread across the entirety of the Council estate, including areas not covered in the audit. The most recent capital works programme has allocated a total of £26 million for community infrastructure projects.

Provision for new or improved community facilities should be considered according to local need as evidenced through community engagement and assessed against existing provision in areas where there is no, limited or inaccessible provision.

Where possible, new housing development, particularly large-scale sites, should be directed to areas where community facilities already exist. Where this is not possible, the use of developer contributions to mitigate the impact of new development and requirement for associated new community infrastructure should be considered. The development of a policy will therefore be undertaken in producing the Proposed Plan, in conjunction with consideration of the overall requirements for developer contributions and their impact on delivering development in Glasgow.

Existing public conveniences should be retained and enhanced where possible with Council investment made to strengthen Liveable Neighbourhoods and Town Centres where capital and revenue opportunities allow. The requirement for policy to ensure additional toilets will be considered in producing the Proposed Plan, taking into account NPF4 Policy 15 which requires development proposals to contribute to local living, taking into account local access to publicly accessible toilets.
